

LOVER'S VICTORY.
I am dead, dear love, if thou shouldst make another hold a load to bear, but another could thy woe assuage, make tears more tender and loving care, make hovering near thee would not shide, and that smile on a beloved bride—
When I am dead!

she not like me—dark, let her be fresh and fair, she leaves me with wild and free, she never stately, grand and tall—that I was frail and small—
When I am dead!

some not failing to the side, and up to the level of the heart, sheevey for some pale or smart, when our Love's expression crave—sheevey a glibbed slave—

When I am dead!

You see the last of Cataract, if you'll take Doctor Sage's Remedy. With
the poisons, irritating smells, sooty creams, balms, and the like—you don't have to help him for a time. But when something else comes along, usually, nine times out of ten, it's the lungs.

With Dr. Sage's Remedy, there's a perfect and permanent cure by someone who knows what he's doing, and has given it to thousands of cases, and to its mild, soothing cleansing and healing properties.
Not only Cataract itself, but Cataract Headaches, Cold in the Head—all the trouble that comes from it.

They're either a perfect and permanent cure, no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing—or there's $600 in cash for you.

The proprietors of Dr. Sage's Remedy, in perfect good faith, agree and contract to give you the best value for your money.

peaking from the Loving Cup.
My prosperous club has its loving cup many times, and the guests who are gracing the banquet know its value in the graceful ceremonial which is observed in drinking from it: each should have two handles, and a cup and is handed to the principal and to the toasts begin. The host takes it by both handles, and standing in the person nearest who also handles both bowls. Then while the head guest removes the lid, the first two guests and with another bow passes the cup to his neighbor, who replaces the lid and presents it in turn to the head guest, and so the ceremony is repeated.

In the old days of chivalry and of nobility, as a man while drinking from the hand-cup was practically defenseless, his companion was only to remove the cover with his hand that he might not take advantage of the other. It is a very pretty ceremony when gracefully performed.—

Hawarden Castle.
Rev. Henry Drew was an amiable and congenial guide to the many objects engaging interest in Hawarden.
Before leaving the drawing room I had feasted my eyes on many memorials and souvenirs of the life still in a wonderful preservation. The room large lightome one, looking on to grounds. Every nook and corner of the same token of love or admiration of worshippers of the great man who abides this retreat. These were from quarters—India, Italy, Ireland, America, and England.

There is a huge embossed silver cylinder, bearing tapestry from India, and an antique, beautifully bound album containing nothing but the names of Italian artists. The bright face of Lord Rosebery looks out on you from a large silver frame surrounded with the letter "R," the ascetic countenance of John Grey is not absent.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Vampires in Guiana.
The West Indies were first discovered here were put on some of the islands; so as to become vast herds, affording a supply of fresh meat to the inner sick of the scurvy. In Guiana, however, these animals became men, but on the contrary required most care to preserve them as vampires. Domestic animals, man sleep at night, and here they have the advantage of them, while the wild quadrupeds of the forest range at the same time as their sanguinary enemy. Hence it has followed as pecaries roamed securely and are safe from the vampires, while their sanguinary cousins must be housed in cages.—Longman's Magazine.

Shocked Over the Wire.
The Voice from the Telephone—I wish you'd cut off the heads of one Mrs. Hobson, one Mrs. Sarah Jones, two Miss Hardys and a Peter Pinkerton, and send them to my house this evening a time for dinner.

The Voice at the Transmitter—Great God! What?

The Voice from the Telephone—Oh dear me! I've got the wrong number.

thought you were Grubby, the

Had Heard of Bishop Brooks.
On the afternoon when Bishop Brooks talked to the Young Men's Christian Association an usher in the building said to a deacon, "I am glad Mr. Brooks is going to speak to us this afternoon, for I have heard him very well spoken of as a preacher."—New York Tribune.

When argument takes the place of spit-hurling the victory of right principles will dawn, for epithets may be hurling by any one, but sound argument is possible only on the side of the right.
